pendence. In 1966, the Delhi Administration Act proclaimed Delhi as a UT and 6, Ludlow Castle Road was renamed Raj Niwas.

Naren Bikhu Ram Jain, who lives in the bungalow on 4, Flag Staff Road, said originally, just four bungalows existed on Flag Staff Road during the British rule, and all were occupied by high-ranking British officials. "After Independence, the bungalows were sold to different families, mostly to the Jain business community. In the 1960s the government acquired it and the bungalow was used to house top government officials," said Naren Jain, 69, social worker.

It has served as the house for several government officers including some chief secretaries of Delhi, before it was allotted to Prem Singh who stayed in the house during his tenure as Delhi speaker between 2004 and 2008.

Former Delhi minister Arvinder Singh Lovely said he was offered 6, Flag Staff Road as a residence in 2008. "But I declined the offer," said Lovely.

Deputy speaker of Delhi assembly Amrish Singh Gautam was the final occupant of the house before Kejriwal moved in.
